THE PROTECTIVE QUESTION AT HOME: BEING THE SUBSTANCE OF A REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON MANUFACTURES (CLASSIC REPRINT) (PAPERBACK)

Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Protective Question at Home: Being the Substance of a Report of the Committee on Manufactures The Committee on Manufactures, to whom were referred sundry petitions praying for the repeal or modification of the existing warehousing laws, have investigated the questions presented by these petitions, with a grave sense of the responsibility attending an inquiry, the result of which might be to disturb a system of commercial policy which has stood unchallenged for over twenty years, which is guarded by careful treasury regulations, provided with a vast machinery of structures and officials, and with whose usages the mercantile communities at home and abroad have become familiar. This responsibility, however, the committee cannot evade. The very constitution of a committee expressly raised to protect and promote, to the extent allowable by the Constitution and the general policy of the nation, the special interests of manufactures, recognizes the obligations of the national legislature to consult the interests of manufactures in their relations to the general welfare. The committee are made the legislative guardians of all the productive industry of the country which is not within the domain of commerce and agriculture. Even if modern usage has relieved the committee of some of its primitive duties, and transferred them, with doubtful propriety, to committees of ways and means and finance, the obligation is still imposed upon this committee, and is enforced by all its traditions, to inquire seriously into the operation of any policy which is alleged to affect injuriously the manufacturing industry of the country. Waiving for the present an inquiry into the specific allegations against the warehousing system, the committee propose at first to consider whether...
